

My audience for my paper are people who struggle with the pressure for their family members. I want them to know that it's okay not to know what they want to do with their life. They should be crazy to let someone know about their struggles. The signs of parental struggle and know what to do when they become parents themselves because not all of people the signs. For them to tell their about the sign of parental pressure. Maybe my audience won't be able to learn because of them being scared of their family members reacted about the information will share with them. I'm scary to tell my parents about my school struggle. The unique perspective is I can related to some of the stuff I wrote because of my own academic struggle i have with school. I feel like i need lot of feeling into my paper it just weird feeling, I know it sounds weird. I learn the sign of parental pressure and I feel those all the time. When i was reading the play I felt i like can related to all of them in different ways. I thought family pressure was good topic to write about. I didn't how i can move pass this struggle. I think should've wrote something about moving past the struggle. I would like to learn lot more for this topic. Well i was always working alone so no peers really help with my writing. My mind change a little bit because of what i read on different types of parental styles. If i had extra week i would probably would do more research on the outcomes of the parental styles. The last thing would tell my audience is if you are struggle with something it's okay to get help because you won't be able to do everything alone. That's what i'm doing getting help with my struggles in life.
