

The play was really good and i think the playwrights did excellent job at writing it. If their was only a video of the play to see how they put everything together and give me a better understanding of it. I think they have to see what were the stereotypes each race has. To make it feel right and people from that race can relate to it. Doing my own research to make analysis to Intersections would give an understanding what people of that race go through just because the color of their skin. Intersections has grabbed me can't explain it but the play made think about racism and how our country sadly at time is going through racism. I don't what type of research I want to do yet from the play. Research means to me is finding answers to what you don't and want to know. Research should be guided by questions because research basically questions we want answer to. I don't know what should motivate my research yet because I don't what i want to basic my research on.
