

Group Activity: Finding Current Articles about Workers Movements

Due on Friday, April 10 by 9:00pm.

Instructions –

In this exercise each member of the group will find one article about how workers are joining together and organizing for better working conditions whether amidst the Coronavirus crisis or more generally over the past year. Each group member will search for and select one new article to share with group members, share the link to the article in the Google Doc and write a couple of sentences about what they learned from the article. In addition group members should read the articles shared by other members of your group and reply to at least one of the comments.

One other thing – each group member has to find and share a different article!

REMEMBER TO ADD YOUR NAME TO YOUR TWEET SO I KNOW YOU DID IT!

Suggested Sources for Recent Articles about Workers Movements:

New York Times - <https://www.nytimes.com>

New York Daily News - <https://www.nydailynews.com>

Labor Notes - <https://www.labornotes.org>

The American Prospect - <https://prospect.org>

In These Times - <https://inthesetimes.com>

Jacobin - <https://jacobinmag.com>

The Nation - <https://www.thenation.com>