

Bridging Teaching and Learning through the Humanities

Information Session

Friday, January 27

1:00 – 3:00 pm

GC Room 3317

Mellon Humanities Alliance Fellowship for Doctoral Students Interested in Community College Teaching

The Humanities Alliance is soliciting applications for a unique fellowship opportunity enabling nine doctoral students at the Graduate Center to explore community college pedagogy and possible teaching careers. In addition to actual teaching experience at a community college, Fellows will participate in dedicated teaching and learning workshops designed to help them prepare their courses and examine how community colleges foster innovation that serves the “new majority” of undergraduate students today.

Join Humanities Alliance staff for an Information Session to learn more about the fellowship and to ask any questions you may have. Applications and detailed information are also available on our website at cunyhumanitiesalliance.org/posts/callforgraduatefellows2017. If you have questions about the program, but are unable to attend the Information Session, please contact info@cunyhumanitiesalliance.com.

Applications due Tuesday, January 31, 2017.